Information about Delhi

Delhi, officially the National Capital Territory of Delhi (NCT), is a city and a union territory of India containing New Delhi, the capital of India. It is situated alongside the River Yamuna and is bordered by the Haryana state on three sides and by the Uttar Pradesh state to the east. The NCT covers an area of 1,484 square kilometres (573 sq mi).

According to the 2011 census, Delhi's city proper population was over 11 million, the second-highest in India after Mumbai, while the whole NCT population was about 16.8 million. Delhi's urban area is now considered to extend beyond the NCT boundaries and to include the neighbouring satellite cities of Faridabad, Gurgaon, Ghaziabad and Noida in an area now called the Central National Capital Region (CNCR) and in 2016 had an estimated population of over 26 million people, making it the world's second-largest urban area according to the United Nations.

Delhi is well connected with the neighbouring regions and other major cities of India through all modes of transport such as airways, railways and roads.

Information about hotels, restaurants, museums, sightseeing, transport and much more can be obtained on the host country COP 14 website.

Currency

The national currency in India is the Indian Rupee (INR).

- USD 1 = approximately INR 69.69
- EUR 1 = approximately INR 77.73

Payment by international credit card is accepted in most of the recommended hotels, big shopping malls and restaurants. It is advisable to carry a mixture of cash and credit cards to guard against any situation. US dollars and euros are easy to exchange.

Weather

The average temperature for the month of September is 29 degrees Centigrade with approximately 117 mm precipitation.

The electricity supply in India is 220 volts, alternating at 50 cycles (Hertz) per second. You can use your electric appliances in India, if the standard voltage in your country is between 220-240V (as it is in the UK, Europe, Australia and most of Asia and Africa). If the standard voltage in your country is in the range 100-127V (as it is in the US, Canada and most South American countries), you need a voltage converter in India. You can also consider a combined power plug adapter/voltage converter.

In India, the power plugs and sockets are of type C (standard "Euro" plug), and D (mainly used in India, Sri Lanka, Nepal, and some African countries).
